The Oregon sailed from her dock in this city at 12:30 today, carrying some 600 passengers and as much freight as it was possible to place aleasy. The research proceeded to the mouth of the river without accident. When Just about to cross out, the smele was discovered coming from the bankers, where 600 tons of road was stored. The alarm was immediately given, it was some time before the position of the hinze was ascertained.

Meanwhile the passengers had learned of the fire, and for a time there was consternation. The steamer was 20 miles from a suitable berth and as the terrible possibilities of the situation dawned upon the fortune-suckers, the excitement was intense. The officers of the Gregon alone were cool, and awned upon the fortune-suckers the property. The excitement then subsided and the crow was better embles do work at the burkers. The fire was at the bottom of the coal, and it was necessary to put back to port. The steamer arrived at her dock at 5 p. m. and the work of unloading the coal commenced.

The essential amendment, as pointed out by Secretary Gage, is on the question as to whether American goods consigned to Alaskan ports from Scattle can be carried in American vessels to Victoria, a distance of only 12 miles, and at Victoria be put on British vessels to be carried to Dyea about 200 miles, or to St. Michaels, about 2,000 miles, or to St. Michaels, about 2,000 miles, the treasury department has ruled that this is a violation of the laws reserving the coasting trade to American vessels.
